Description

render_to_component was a method of the Jeff's xhtmlrenderer plugin that we though was not needed anymore.

I was used to display the preview panel in a JPanel on a Servoy form instead of an independent window.

David Pearce told us that he was missing this functionality, so I'm opening this issue to see if we can add it back.

Works fine now.
Will be in next v1.2.5 version: added previewToComponent() and updatePreview() methods.
Need to create a sample in the sample solution and will publish a new release.

Note that due to the fact that the previewToComponent() will take a JPanel to render, these methods will not be web compatible!
